Dear friends,

It is my honor to share Church Health's incredible accomplishments over the past year. I find myself reflecting on the lives we have touched, all thanks to your unwavering support, which is a testament to the power of God's love and compassion.

First and foremost, I want to highlight the exceptional leadership we have in all our areas of care.

Dr. Melissa Barnhart and Dr. Joel Finley, who both hold double board certifications in internal medicine and pediatrics, have brought passion and commitment to serving the underserved in our medical clinic.

In the dental clinic, Dr. Laurie Hodge has taken our services to new heights, ensuring that individuals with limited means have access to state-of-the-art dental care. Healthy teeth are critical to our working patients' confidence and future successes.

Under the visionary leadership of Dr. Kirsten McKnight, our optometric care team has embarked on an ambitious project to build a second clinic to combat the leading causes of blindness, a testament to our team's vision and empathy.

We take great pride in the additional crucial care we offer through our physical therapy, behavioral health and our nutrition center that not only educates individuals about healthy cooking, but provides nutritious meals for those who are food insecure.

I am proud to say that we are soaring to new heights with a team of strong, young leaders. Together, we facilitated more than 57,500 patient visits in the last year, providing health care that continues to make our city proud. This accomplishment would not have been possible without our incredible staff, dedicated volunteer providers and your generous support.

While our annual report will highlight impressive numbers, what truly matters is the impact on those with nowhere else to turn. Thank you for being an integral part of this journey.

With heartfelt gratitude,

Scott Morris, MD, MDiv
Founder and CEO

Expanding our Eye Clinic

New clinic to open Summer of 2024

If you are uninsured, it is often cost prohibitive to receive quality care for the leading causes of blindness – diabetic retinopathy, glaucoma, cataracts and macular degeneration. Church Health intends to change that.

When Church Health moved to Crosstown in 2017, we opened an eye clinic with the Southern College of Optometry. We are very proud of the clinic, called Focal Point, that makes glasses for our patients and dedicates time and energy to preventing eye diseases.

Last November, Church Health began an ambitious expansion project to enhance eye care services. The primary goal is to facilitate the simultaneous operation of our optometry and ophthalmology clinics by creating a more accommodating space on the third floor of Crosstown. Thanks to a generous grant from the Assisi Foundation, we were able to start construction on this space in December 2023.

Our new eye clinic will expand on Focal Point's success and dramatically help us care for patients suffering from the leading causes of blindness.

This transformative project will double the number of exam rooms available for daily operations, leading to a nearly 30 percent increase in appointment capacity. Additionally, this expansion paves the way for future growth and service line expansion, ensuring that Church Health remains at the forefront of delivering comprehensive eye care services to those in need.

The journey to this point has been one of evolution and adaptation. Initially, Church Health's Eye Clinic at Crosstown Concourse operated on a smaller scale, focusing primarily on critical eye care and education for future optometrists. However, recognizing the growing needs of the community, particularly in primary vision care, our clinic has shifted to a patient-centered private practice model, enabling us to better serve our patients with daily appointment access.

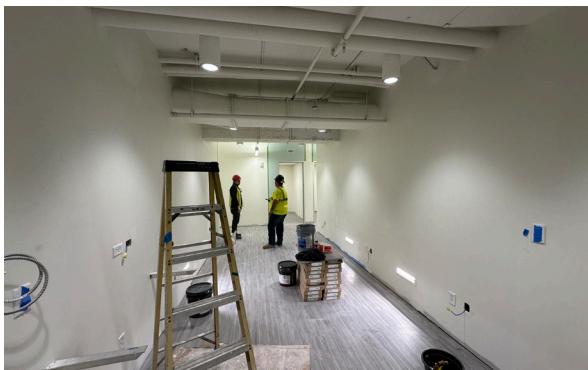

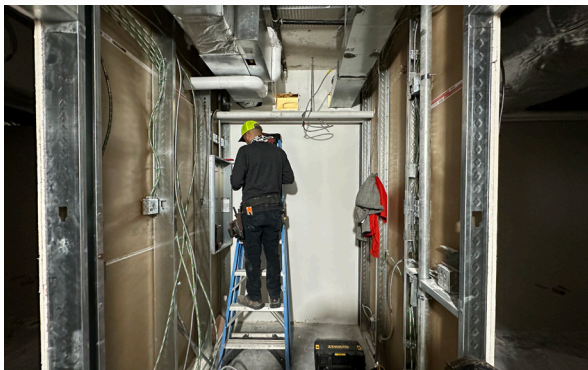

Central to our expansion efforts is the recognition of our patients' needs and the importance of collaboration. As we positioned ourselves as primary eye care providers, we observed a greater demand for specialty ophthalmology services. Through strategic partnerships with esteemed institutions such as the Hamilton Eye Institute, Memphis Eye & Cataract Associates, and the Charles Retina Institute, we now offer on-site clinics for retina, glaucoma, oculoplastic, and cataract services on a monthly basis. Our target population encompasses the working uninsured of Memphis and Shelby County as well as those who face barriers to accessing health care. With 13 percent of Shelby County residents lacking health insurance and 40 percent of Memphians lacking regular access to a primary care provider, the need for our services is clear. Looking ahead, our expansion plans will address these needs comprehensively. By reimagining our clinic space and optimizing resource allocation, we will build our capacity to provide high-quality care to those who need it most. With the construction of this eye clinic space scheduled to complete in June 2024, we are eager to embark on this journey toward a healthier, more vibrant community. Church Health remains steadfast in its commitment to bridging gaps in access to health care and improving the quality of life for all Memphians. As we expand our footprint and enhance our capabilities, we invite the community to join us in this transformative endeavor. Together, we can build a healthier future for generations to come.

Construction in progress of the new eye clinic space.

Volunteer Spotlight: Dr. Salar Rafieetary

Former Church Health Scholar now volunteers

Salar Rafieetary, a former Church Health Scholar, channels his passion for health care into volunteering, ensuring patients receive essential care. Inspired by mentors Dr. Michael Lynch, Dr. John Lochemes, and Dr. David Hickey, he chose ophthalmology for its balance between surgery and patient relationships. Reflecting on his journey, Rafieetary shares, "As a retina specialist, many of the diseases we manage are consequences of uncontrolled systemic conditions, with diabetes and hypertension being the most common. I believe that by addressing these underlying conditions, we can have a significant impact on the overall health of our patients." Today, he practices at the Charles Retina Institute while continuing his volunteer work with Church Health.

Appreciating Church Health's multidisciplinary approach, Dr. Rafieetary emphasizes prevention and patient empowerment. "Patients with diabetes, for example, are not simply given a prescription for insulin and sent on their way. They are provided with educational tools, such as health coaching and cooking classes, to empower them in managing their disease," he explains. Being a lifelong Memphian, he gives back to his city by volunteering, recognizing the importance of community-driven health care initiatives.

In the Church Health Eye Clinic, Dr. Rafieetary witnesses the gratitude of patients who otherwise lack access to such services. He credits teamwork and mentorship, led by Dr. McKnight, for making the volunteer process efficient and enjoyable. "These patients are incredibly grateful for the care they receive," he adds. Dr. Rafieetary hopes to leave a positive impression on future medical scholars, echoing the impact of his own mentors.

We Will Miss You, Pat Halloran

A friend to Church Health and to all of Memphis

Church Health lost one of its most loyal and fun friends and supporters with the passing of Pat Halloran last month.

Pat was best known for his 36-year career at The Orpheum Theatre. From its revival in 1980 to its continued improvements, The Orpheum and The Halloran Centre for Performing Arts and Education are testaments to Pat's unwavering dedication and tireless fundraising efforts. He made great connections on Broadway, bringing award-winning plays to Memphis and investing in three Tony-winning productions.

But Pat's career extended beyond the theater. When he retired in 2016 from his dream job at The Orpheum, few people knew he actually set up a temporary office at Church Health. Pat wasn't meant for retirement, and he wanted to keep raising money and connecting people to causes important to him.

Pat offered invaluable advice (whether we asked for it or not) and mentored countless Church Health employees from young interns to our CEO, Dr. Scott Morris. Pat didn't hold back, no matter who he was talking to.

Pat was annoyed by negative attitudes about Memphis and decided to create an organization called Positively Memphis. It hosted four community luncheons each year that brought in well-known speakers with positive messages. His first speaker was Dr. Scott Morris. He donated proceeds from the luncheons to Church Health and other Memphis charities.

Pat was wise, honest and funny. He had a larger-than-life personality, infectious laugh and a quick wit that brought joy and laughter to staff and patients at Church Health. We are forever changed by his friendship.

Remembering Why We Are Here

A lifeline for uninsured people working in low-wage jobs

An article by Dr. Scott Morris

In our country, we rely on employers to voluntarily provide health insurance coverage to their employees and dependents. We have government health care programs for the elderly, the disabled and some of the poor.

More than 25 million Americans fall through the cracks.

Almost all are working adults. Many do jobs that help the rest of us have comfortable lives: they cook our food, care for our children, cut our grass and clean our houses. Others are part of the modern gig economy, without permanent work.

If they happen to work for an employer that offers health insurance—as roughly a quarter of the uninsured do—they often can't afford their portion of the premiums. Faced with the choice of feeding their children today versus risking illness without health insurance, they understandably choose the latter.

When they do get sick, their options are few. Most often they stay home and wait to feel better. If they don't, they may go to a hospital emergency room. The average cost of an ER visit in Tennessee is $1,883—if the problem is simple and resolves on its own. The largest driver of bankruptcy in the country comes from the working uninsured being sued by hospitals for bills they can't pay.

Church Health is a lifeline for uninsured people working in low-wage jobs in Memphis. Since opening in 1987, we've had approximately 80,000 people on our rolls. We are faith-based but don't impose our faith on anyone. Instead, we use the term to mean that most who work here or support us do so because their personal faith or values compel them to help.

“Church Health allows people to give in a way that reflects their values of upholding human dignity and well-being while addressing an urgent need in their neighbors’ lives.”

Several summers ago, I met George, a 50-year-old man who works in concrete. When I shook George’s hand, a thick callus crossed his fingers like a leather stripe in his palm. And when I X-rayed his knee, it was clear he needed it replaced. His pain led him to take matters into his own hands, wrapping layer after layer of duct tape around the joint to support it while he worked.

Because we operate as a charitable organization, Church Health has a network of about 1,000 volunteer physicians working alongside our paid staff. This allows us to offer subspecialty care, restorative dental care, full-service eye care and a behavioral health center. And it allows us to offer a surgery like the one George needed without cost to him. We also have relationships with local hospitals, which have a charitable pathway so he wouldn’t receive a bill.

When I told George we could do the surgery for free and it would take away his pain, he had only one question: “Will I have to miss work?”

When I told him he would not be able to work for a few weeks, he calmly thanked me and then said, “For now, the duct tape works fine.”

I refused to leave it at that. No one should have to duct tape their knee to work in America today.

With the help of our physical therapists, we got him through that season and replaced his knee in January, when concrete laborers don’t see much work.

Health care is expensive. To provide such care, Church Health has an annual budget of $27 million, but volunteer community engagement means the value of our services is many times higher.

Church Health allows people to give in a way that reflects their values of upholding human dignity and well-being while addressing an urgent need in their neighbors’ lives.

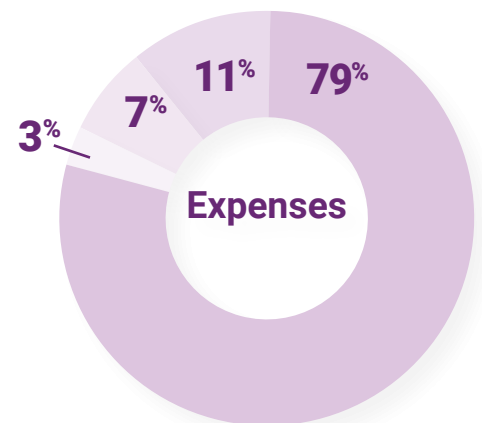

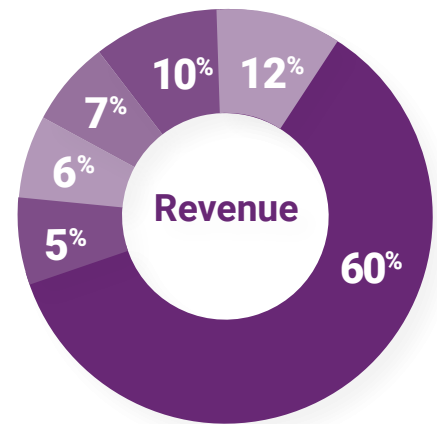

That need will unfortunately continue. And so will Church Health’s role in meeting it.

Jeff Carnahan was our guest chef and sweet potato pie expert at Church Health's Nutrition Nibbles class, teaching our staff a delicious sweet potato pie recipe. Jeff has personally delivered hundreds of pounds of sweet potatoes for our patients from the USDA community garden The Cotton Patch, managed by Jeff. Church Health is so grateful for Jeff's kind donations and potato cooking prowess!
